

Legacies of British Slave-ownership (LBS): The North-West and North Wales

A one-day workshop at the Merseyside Maritime Museum, Liverpool

Saturday 23 October 2010

LBS project team at University College London:

Catherine Hall, Nick Draper, Keith McClelland, Ben Mechen

10.00-10.30	Arrival and registration
10.30-10.45	Introduction to the day	Catherine Hall
10.45-11.45	Introduction to the LBS project	Catherine Hall
	Slave-ownership in the North-West: Interim results from the Slave Compensation records	Nick Draper, Keith McClelland
11.45-12.00	Coffee break
12.00-12.30	Open discussion	Chaired by Catherine Hall
12.30-1.10	Recent & Current work on the North-West and North Wales (part 1)
	a) Manx slave-traders and their impact on the Liverpool trade	Frances Wilkins (Independent social historian)
	b) "Friendly links" with the slave-trade: some relationships between abolitionists and anti-abolitionists in the North-West	Jonathan Huddleston (Independent historian)
1.10-2.00	Lunch
2.00-2.20	Issues arising from Recent & Current work on the North-West and North Wales (part 2)
	c) Slavery, slave-money and reparations	Dorothy Kuya (Community historian and Associate Trustee of National Museums Liverpool)
2.20-2.50	Open discussion	Chaired by Catherine Hall
2.50-3.50	Break-out sessions
	Groups of 6-10 members of the audience: an opportunity for participants to talk about their own areas of interest and to hear about the activity of others, to discuss common issues and priorities for the future.
3.50-4.10	Tea
4.10-4.40	Reports back from the break-out groups by Chairs
4.40-5.00	Plenary session and conclusions	Chaired by Catherine Hall
5.00	Close

For further information please contact lbs@ucl.ac.uk or visit the website <http://www.ucl.ac.uk/lbs/>